Recommendations:

To harden the security framework of Botium Toys and safeguard confidential data, a variety of security measures should be adopted. These include enforcing the principle of minimum access rights, establishing a robust disaster recovery strategy, setting clear and secure password standards, assigning roles to prevent conflict of interest, deploying an intrusion detection system (IDS), maintaining and updating outdated systems, applying data encryption, and using a secure password management solution.

In order to close existing compliance gaps, Botium Toys should also prioritize enforcing strict access controls, separating critical job responsibilities, and securing data through encryption. Additionally, the organization must implement a comprehensive asset classification process to determine which supplementary security measures are necessary to further enhance protection of sensitive information and overall resilience.
